

MOROBE PROVINCE

The gateway to the Highlands, Morobe boasts majestic mountains and lush rainforest filled with butterflies, orchids and tropical birds. The Huon Gulf provides excellent fishing and diving and there are good reefs around the coastal town of Finschhafen, Salamaua and the Siassi Islands. Salamaua also has war relics, swimming and snorkelling, and trekking to Mt Tambu for spectacular views. Lae is the capital and Papua New Guinea's second largest city. It was once a tiny mission station before 1920s gold rush at Wau, and later developed into a major seaport. The town is well-serviced by banks, hotels, department stores, markets and artefact shops. Gold mining, birdwatching and butterflies can be seen around the Wau an Bulolo in the hills south of Lae is Lae linked to the Highlands by the Okuk Highway.
