CHOOSE YOUR ENVIRONMENT

The immense diversity of dive sites includes barrier reefs, coral walls, fringing reefs, sea grass beds and coral atolls. Spectacular wreck diving demonstrates untouched collections of ships and aircraft from WWII and the diverse marine life they attract. With 17,000 kilometres of coastline and 45,000 square kilometres of reef systems, visitors can enjoy private dive experiences and minimal contact with other dive groups.

While the reefs teem with life, they are extremely fragile so preservation of the marine environment is emphasised with the ethos 'look but don't touch'. Visitors quickly experience the importance of the oceans to local communities and are able to contribute to the management of the dive industry and the underwater world with a nominal Environment & Safety Fee that is collected by operators for each dive day.

For the best dive and air packages, pre-book your complete tour with a recognised PNG dive specialist or visit www.papuanewguinea.travel

PNG DIVERS ASSOCIATION

The PNG Divers Association is a member-based organisation representing the interests of the dive industry of Papua New Guinea. Since 1998 the Association has maintained a Secretariat through which these main programs are managed: Annual Marketing - promoting Papua New Guinea as a premier dive destination to international markets; Environmental Mooring Program - installation of environmental moorings to avoid anchor damage on reefs; and Hyperbaric Recompression Facility - supporting the operation of an in-country facility maintained to international standards to treat diving-related accidents.

THOUSANDS OF DIFFERENT SPECIES

Located in the center of the Asia-Pacific region, Papua New Guinea is said to have twice as many marine species as the waters of the Red Sea and up to ten times as many as the Caribbean. Encouraged by the constant movement of the surrounding Bismarck, Coral and Solomon Seas, there are a stunning array of species to be discovered. Everything from tiny pygmy seahorses and nudibranchs to the magnificent whale shark can be encountered by diving Papua New Guinea.
